Kathy Griffin Thinks Comedy Should Go All Out on 'President Piece of Shit' Donald Trump

By Shira Levine

It's a question a lot of comedians are asking themselves lately: What should comedy look like during the Trump presidency? "Now more than ever we must absolutely go for all the absurdities," Kathy Griffin told Vulture at the Equality Now Gala Tuesday night. "For me, that's Trump and all things Trump. It's not about trying to be an equal-opportunity offender anymore because Hillary got such a beat down. It's his turn. So I'm happy to deliver beat down to Donald Trump — and also to Barron. You know a lot of comics are going to go hard for Donald, my edge is that I'll go direct for Barron. I'm going to get in ahead of the game."

So, of course, Griffin supported Rosie O'Donnell when she tweeted a video asking if Barron Trump, 10-year-old son of Donald and Melania, was on the autism spectrum. "After the beat down he gave her, she can say whatever she wants to say to that piece of shit," Griffin said before correcting herself. "Oh, that's President Piece of Shit."
